Dear Valued Customer,

This letter is to inform you that Baxter will discontinue all service, repair, technical support and replacement parts relating to the Lamarr wireless radio card in Welch Allyn Connex Vital Signs Monitor (CVSM) and Welch Allyn Connex Integrated Wall System (CIWS) devices, effective immediately. Affected CVSM/CIWS wireless devices include those manufactured June 2018 or earlier. For instructions on how to determine device manufacturing date using the serial number, refer to Appendix A.

This does not impact CVSM 6400/6700 or CIWS 8400 series devices. To determine which radio card (if any) is currently installed in your CVSM/CIWS device, refer to Appendix B.

Please be advised that by continuing to use this product beyond the specified End of Service and Support date, you are fully assuming the cybersecurity risk of using the product. Any and all risk, including but not limited to your networks, data privacy, and/or patient safety, arising from a cybersecurity incident associated with the product will be transferred to your organization on this date.

If you have a device with a Lamarr radio and are interested in an upgrade, please contact our technical support department or your local sales representative.

The table below outlines the differences between the Lamarr (June 2018 or earlier) and Newmar (post-June 2018) wireless radio cards:
